LIGHTENING STRIKES TWICE

Lightening struck two trees Sunday afternoon in the back yard of a home at 807 Larchmont Drive, Broadmoor, occupied by Mrs. Persephone Ganatos and her son, Andy. Mrs. Ganatos, who is 80 and a native of Greece, said the last time she was in an area where lightning struck, two men were killed. That was some 60 years ago in her homeland, she said. The tall pine tree was chopped off near the base and topped into a backroom of the home. No one was hurt. More talk about the weather on Page Two.

Not Here, Pacificans Tell Dump Site Panel

By FRANK LaPIERRE and JANET PARKER

A determined group of Pacificans finally were admitted to what had been expected to be a closed door meeting between Pacifica and Daly City officials held Monday to discuss a joint garbage transfer station.

The protesting residents were mainly from the Edgemar district of Pacifica — one of five proposed sites for a joint transfer station to serve the cities of Pacifica, Daly City, Broadmoor and Colma.

For weeks, the group had insisted they be allowed to sit in on these advisory committee meetings between Daly City and Pacifica.

But each time they tried to gain entry, the Edgemar area representatives were barred.

Because the meetings were not attended by a quo-

Rockaway Rock Quarry off Highway One; Mussel Rock (site of the present dump); and, an area off the Junipero Serra Boulevard near Colma.

Both Mussel Rock and the Rock Quarry fall under the jurisdiction of the state Coastal Zone Commission.

It was decided by the councilmen attending Monday's meeting to return to their respective councils and ask that the San Francisco Engineering firm of Easley & Brassy be hired for $7,000 to study proposed transfer station sites.

Costs of this study will be split between both cities, with Pacifica paying one-third and Daly City two-thirds of the total costs, $2,333 and $4,666 respectively.

The study must be completed within seven weeks, according to a 13-page mutual agreement presented to the Daly City council at a study session Monday night.

Officials are now listing Mussel Rock as the Number 1 priority site for a transfer station.

The stability of the land, however, is expected to be questioned by the Coastal Zone Commission, which must approve a construction permit for the site.

Daly City will hire a firm to prepare an environmental impact report on the Mussel Rock site and apply for permits this month, Rowe said Monday.

The regional Water Quality Control Board has ordered that Mussel Rock — used by both cities — be closed by Aug. 15.

As a result, Pacifica and Daly City will need a transfer station to transport garbage to the nearest available dumpsite, probably Ox Mountain in Half Moon Bay.

Meetings on the subject became controversial when more than 150 Edgemar residents crowded a Pacifica council meeting last month protesting consideration of property in their neighborhood.

Edgemar resident Lise Walterscheid was turned away from one joint meeting on Dec. 21. The residents sent a registered letter last week to Pacifica Mayor Janice Fulford asking that they be represented at the joint meetings.

Mrs. Walterscheid said Rowe called her Sunday night and told her she would not be admitted to the Monday meeting.

Gust said it is by no means certain that there will be a joint site.

If Pacifica prefers a site too far south, it may not be economically feasible for Daly City to participate, he said.

"They have to look at the economics as well as we do," Gust said.

Study Recommended Of Five Sites for A Transfer Station

rum of either city council and because they allowed no private individuals to participate, the committee could legally hold the secret meetings, according to Daly City City Manager David Rowe.

Monday's meeting was supposed to be another in a series of these private discussions.

Instead, councilmen and city staff representatives from Daly City and Pacifica were greeted by an angry group of homeowners and several television and newspaper cameras when they arrived at the Rockaway Beach restaurant in Pacifica Monday.

Daly City Mayor Tony Giammona asked that the meeting be made public.

Councilmen Al Teglia of Daly City and Nick Gust and Mark Savage of Pacifica agreed.

During the meeting, there was little discussion of Edgemar as the site for the transfer station.

Instead, the location was lumped in with four other possible sites — the Denman Ranch at San Pedro Point;

Non-Smokers Get a Hazing

"Smoke, smoke, smoke that cigarette,

Smoke, smoke, smoke and then you puff yourself to death.

Tell St. Peter at the Golden Gate that you hate to make him wait.

But you've just got to have another cigarette."

So go the words of a once-popular country and western tune sung by Phil Harris back in the 1950s.

It was cute. It was catchy. But cigarette sales figures indicate it had little effect on cutting down on smoking.

The song sums up the feelings of many non-smokers today.

Among the worst offenders — "pollutionally" speaking — are the politicians and their staffs who between clouds of tobacco smoke.

Some cities are acting in favor of non-smokers — they are simply forbidding smoking inside council chambers and other public gathering places.

Colma forbids smoking inside its council chamber. Several other cities have restricted smoking to certain areas inside public buildings, while others treat the no-smoking requests from such groups as something of a joke.

Daly City appears to be in the "treat it as a joke" category, judging by comments and actions — or lack of action — taken when the subject of smoking in public areas was discussed by the council and staff Monday.

The establishment of smoking areas in city buildings failed to materialize. Discussion of the subject was held to a minimum by the council and staff.

In fact, midway through discussion on designation of smoking areas inside the City Hall Council Chambers, City Attorney Al Polonsky lit his ever-present cigar, sending huge

DC Man Recovering After a Shooting

A Daly City man was reported in good condition Tuesday at Mary's Help Hospital following treatment for a gunshot wound suffered Monday night when his girlfriend allegedly shot him in the leg with a small caliber handgun.

Police said Richard E. Scott, 29, of 121 South Parkview Ave., Daly City was apparently shot in the left leg as he was leaving the home of Dierdre Pugh, 31, at 505 A St., Colma about 10 p.m. Monday.

Scott had reportedly told his friend he was leaving town and she allegedly shot him, police said.

Scott continued to his home and lay down until shortly before 2 a.m. when he felt pain from the bullet and went to Mary's Help Hospital for treatment, police said.

Authorities at the hospital called police.

"He (Scott) had apparently been drinking and this perhaps lessened the pain from the bullet," a police department official said.

Broadmoor Joins the DCPD— Without Skipping a Beat

COMING ABOARD

Daly City Lt. Jim Doran welcomes former Broadmoor Chief Bill E. Beard, who is now a Daly City police captain, and Broadmoor Police Commissioner Dean Davenport.

And the Broadmoor beat goes on — to paraphrase a popular song.

There have been some changes, but nothing dramatic to speak of.

Broadmoor Police Chief Bill E. Beard is now a temporary Daly City police captain. And Lt. Jerry Shaeffer is currently a police sergeant.

But these new designations are for pay purposes only since Daly City took over the Broadmoor police beat at the request of the three man Police Commission New Year's Day.

Since Jan. 1, there have been only seven incidents reported: Two were for hit and run to property; one for malicious mischief, two casualty calls, one petty thefts and one shooting.

There has been no "stacking" of emergency calls, as some Broadmoor residents had feared.

"Stacking" is a routine used by larger police departments to give priority to crimes being reported. For example, a shooting would have precedent in police response to a burglary that had already occurred.

At one minute after midnight on New Year's Day, Broadmoor's insurance coverage by the Hartford Co. was cancelled.

Some people theorized the reason for the sudden termination of insurance was because of several past and present lawsuits against the district. Others say it was simply a case of the insurance company not wanting to risk large sums of money on possible claims for the small ($5,000 annual) insurance premium.

A vociferous group of Broadmoor residents and police commissioner, Wayne Johnson, wanted the district's police protection to be provided under contract by Colma.

Commissioner Johnson, formerly a Broadmoor Police reserve, is now on active reserve with the Colma department.

San Mateo County District Atty. Keith Sorenson's office informed this

Honor For 2 Coaches Mulled

What do football coaches John Madden of the Oakland Raiders and John Robinson of the University of Southern California have in common?

Except for the fact their teams play like the champions they are, both coaches have lived in Daly City.

That's why mayor Anthony Giammona wants to invite them back to Daly City to celebrate their respective national honors.

When, where and other details of this special day are still being worked on, but Giammona feels the coaches will accept the invitation extended by their former hometown.

Madden was raised in Daly City.

Robinson, whose team won the Rose Bowl Saturday, lived in Daly City several years ago and played football at Serra High School.

Hijack Suspect Pleads Not Guilty to Knifing

Palm Hinnant, suspected of a would-be hijacking, Monday pleaded not guilty to a charge of cutting with a knife an inmate at San Mateo County jail in Redwood City New Year's Eve.

During the brief arraignment, Hinnant asked Municipal Court Judge Thomas McGinn Smith if he could ask a question. The judge granted permission.

"Can you guarantee me safe passage back to the jail?" the 37-year-old Hinnant asked.

"Yes," Judge Smith replied.

Hinnant is accused of smuggling a knife into the jail and slicing inmate Scott Hicks, 20, in the arm. Hicks suffered a superficial wound.

Judge Smith set a preliminary hearing for Jan. 17. Sheriff John R. McDonald said at a press briefing Monday that Hinnant apparently hid the small,

2-inch pocked knife in his rectum when he was arrested following the 14-hour siege at San Francisco International Airport Dec. 22.

During that siege, Hinnant allegedly kidnapped two workers of United Air Lines and held them hostage during an abortive hijack attempt. Charges in that case are pending in Northern Municipal District Court in South San Francisco.

Storm Makes Big Dent in Drought

The severe storm which battered San Mateo County on Sunday resulted in one death and numerous weather-related incidents, it was reported Monday.

The rains brought the Bay Area out of a long, potentially disastrous dry spell.

A 31-year-old man drowned as he attempted to secure his boat in high winds at Pillar Point Harbor on the Coastside, authorities at the harbor reported.

Found floating beneath a gas dock was Douglas Baker, who lived aboard the 32-foot motor vessel Carolyn.

A spokesman for the harbor said that Baker's boat apparently began to drag its anchor on 40-knot gusts at about 10 a.m., and Baker apparently fell overboard trying to re-anchor the craft.

Baker was pulled from the water by a U.S. Coast Guard cutter which had entered the harbor with a boat it had picked up and was towing to safety inside.

While enroute, both the cutter and the towed boat, the "Ranoci," experienced engine trouble in angry seas.

Contributing to the difficulties inside the harbor was a two-foot chop, which caused several other boats to drag anchor and drift onto rocks, assistant harbor master Tom Hosford reported.

The beating rains and high winds also added woes to other communities on the Peninsula.

In Pacifica, the metal cover of a swimming pool at a cliffside apartment complex was damaged beyond repair, according to a fire department spokesman, who said the sheet metal "was coming off like cards from a deck."

Firemen in that city spent three hours trying to tie down the structure, the spokesman said.

"Winds from the ocean ripped hell out of it," the spokesman said, adding that authorities were afraid pieces of metal would strike someone.

It was a busy day for Pacifica firemen, who had some 21 storm-related calls, which included a wind-downed eucalyptus tree in the Vallemar area at 6 p.m.

The huge tree crashed onto the steep, second-floor roof of a home, cutting a 40-foot swath, firemen said. City crews cut the tree out, and firemen returned at about 9:30 p.m. to cover the indentation left.

Heavy flooding was reported in San Bruno, especially in the lowlands of Lomita Park and other southeastern San Bruno area, according to firemen in that city.

The heavy winds fanned a garage fire at 100 Yuba Court in San Bruno at 5:45 p.m., but the heaviest damage was confined to the garage and exterior walls and roof.

Two cars in the garage of the Allen Hall home were damaged slightly, firemen said.

The fire started in the garage, firemen said. Damage was estimated at $14,000 to the structure, plus $2,000 to contents.

The roof of a commercial building at Harbor and Utah streets in South San Francisco collapsed in high winds, firemen in that city reported. They were kept busy throughout the day with the usual storm-related calls, including arcing wires and flooding.

Some 4,133 homes in the Serramonte area of Daly City were without electricity between 4:15 and 5:15 p.m., when an underground transformer failed because of heavy rains, reported Pacific Gas and Electric spokesman Ron Bates. Service was reported 99 per cent restored within the hour.

El Camino Real through Burlingame looked like a combat zone at about 5 p.m., with eucalyptus branches and leaves strewn everywhere by the high winds.

Heavy flooding was reported at several Burlingame intersections, as sewers became clogged with debris. Adding to the difficulties was a coincidental high-tide condition, which makes runoff slow under the best of conditions.

California Drive was reported flooded last night from Lincoln Avenue to Trousdale Drive, and the Repo Depot store at Old Bayshore Highway and Mitten Road, a low spot in the area, was reported flooded, as was the federal Defense Contract Administration office on Malcolm Road.

At the peak of the storm Sunday afternoon, members of the California Highway Patrol blocked Bayshore Freeway in both directions near Grand Avenue in South San Francisco because of flooding.

The U. S. Weather Service reported that 1.94 inches of rain fell on San Mateo County during that 24-hour period, and the outlook called for increasing showers Monday afternoon and evening with variable cloudiness overnight. San Francisco International Airport has reported 7.26 inches of rain to date, compared with 3.08 for the similar period a year ago.

ON THE ROAD

Monday these red, white and blue buses took over where North gate Transit Co. buses had driven.

Day One for SamTrans

The red, white and blue buses of SamTrans (San Mateo County Transit District) began rolling on the streets of Daly City Monday.

Thus far, ridership has been sparse, except during commute hours, observers note.

Northgate Transit Co., which had operated buses in the city for the past 15 years, went out of existence at midnight Sunday.

On Saturday dedication ceremonies for the new transit system will be held at the Serramonte Shopping Center at 11 a.m.

City officials and civic leaders are expected to be on hand for the ceremonies, with entertainment provided by the Serramonte Jazz Band under the directorship of Ms. Janice Gaynor.

Dedication remarks are scheduled to be made by several county and state officials, with welcoming remarks to be made by Mayor Anthony Giammona of Daly City and Charles Turner, president of the Greater Daly City Chamber of Commerce.

Broadmoor

newspaper that conflict of interest exists because Johnson has not taken any action in direct connection with Colma.

Johnson voted not to contract with Daly City, while commissioners Dean Davenport and Jack McCloskey voted for the agreement.

Last week following a joint signing ceremony held in Daly City, the commissioners staged a town hall meeting in Broadmoor to discuss what they had done concerning future police protection and why they had to do it.

More than 100 persons attended the meeting.

On hand to explain his department's role in the matter was Chief David Hansen.

Hansen will be in complete charge of the Broadmoor activities. He has pledged full support for the community.

According to Hansen, some residents attending the meeting were critical of the agreement between Broadmoor and Daly City. "However, overall I would say the bulk of the people (at the meeting) were favorable... they did not appear to be anti-Daly City."

For years, some Broadmoor residents have expressed the fear that Daly City would gobble up the community through annexation.

When a recent Broadmoor ballot election authorizing the legislature to double property taxes passed by a clear majority, it was an indication the people wanted to continue their own police district and not become affiliated in any way with Daly City Mayor Anthony Giammona of Daly City said.

Giammona is the only Daly City councilman who voted against the agreement.

The majority of the Daly City council smokes.

But then City Manager David Rowe, City Engineer David Macabee, Director of Community Development Don Fleming and Redevelopment Agency Planner Don Ciucci also smoke.

City Treasurer Tony Zidich, City Clerk Anna Ohlendorf and Giammona do not smoke.

The matter is expected to be discussed further at next week's council meeting at which time proposals will be made on which areas will be designated "smoking" and "non-smoking" areas.

Whether the council bench itself — where smokers Bill Schumacher, McRobert Stewart and Victor Kyriakis preside — will be a subject of the discussion is not known.

But Giammona said he will bring the issue up "and let the ashes fall where they may."

Moose Lodge Wins Permit

Pacifica's Moose Lodge has finally won city approval to construct its Fairway Park Hall at the end of Bradford Way.

The Planning Commission Monday night unanimously approved a use permit and a permit for site development for the Moose Lodge on behalf of architect Arthur Serchia.

The lodge, however, also must obtain the approval of the Coastal Commission since the property as of Jan. 1 falls under new boundaries of the commission's permit zone.

A small contingent of Moose Lodge members wearing bright red jackets appeared at the meeting in support of the building approval which they've been seeking since early 1975.

The Moose Lodge has agreed not to rent its facility to other clubs and organizations, a point of concern by the Planning Commission.

The lodge members and architect Serchia spent many months ironing out parking problems with the city staff. To meet parking requirements, the lodge is using an adjacent single-family residential lot, Planning Administrator Mac Carpenter said.

The City Council in December exempted the lodge from the delay and costs of a general plan amendment. However, Councilman Nick Gust accused his fellow council members of putting off action on the item just long enough to force it into the Coastal Commission's jurisdiction.

In their matters, the commission continued until March 21 a hearing to reclassify the proposed Portolas property between Roberts Road and the Coast Highway.

Lyon Joins Supervisors; Ward Heralds 'Transition'

The San Mateo County Board of Supervisors was joined by a new member Tuesday in Redwood City, and elected a new chairman to guide its actions through 1977.

Fred Lyon, who was elected to the Fifth District board seat vacated by Jean Fassler, was sworn in, along with re-elected Supervisors James V. Fitzgerald and William H. Royer, by Superior Court Judge Melvin Cohn.

Elected board chairman was John M. Ward, who is calling 1977 "the year of transition."

"I believe we can maintain what has been a good balance on the board as we continue to search for innovative and more skillful ways to provide county services, while controlling costs under the pressure of inflation, making sure real human needs never get lost in the outcome," Ward said.

Elected board vice chairman was Edward M. Bacciocco Jr. His nomination by Lyon was seconded by Fitzgerald "with qualifications."

Fitzgerald said that if Bacciocco were running for chairman this year "I on issues, but because of the latter's 'tardiness and not attending certain meeting assignments.'"

"When you're chairman, there's no more money, but a lot more responsibility," Fitzgerald stated, "including being on time."

Fitzgerald observed that Bacciocco "is a friend of mine, and next year I want to vote for him for chairman."

(The board has a policy of rotating the chairmanship.)

Bacciocco replied to Fitzgerald's comments, stating, "I don't think I will change."

"In every band of people there's a maverick. I'm not branded, and I don't think I'll accept that brand from Mr. Fitzgerald."

Bacciocco went on to observe that he had been presented a plaque of commendation for his services as chairman of the County Transit District Board of Directors.

Both Ward and Lyon expressed the need for citizen participation in local government if it is going to prove successful.

"An informed public in San Mateo County remains one of my continuing goals," Ward stated, "and I intend to persist in seeking imaginative ways to inform the public where we are heading, and why."

"There can be no real citizen participation in the processes of local government unless the members of our community are sufficiently informed and, hopefully, activated."

Lyon commented, "This is the most challenging of jobs. Programs are conceived at other levels of government. This is the level where they are carried out. We need continuous input from the people. Unless they wake up, I predict the supervisors will fail without the assistance of the people."

"The citizens must learn where departments are, how a bureaucracy operates and what they can do to help."

Royer, as outgoing chairman, was presented a plaque commemorating his year in the position. An avid golfer, Royer was given gifts of a gold hat and a caddy cane by his fellow board members.

Air Traffic Drop Cited

Monthly passenger records continued to tumble at San Francisco International Airport during November, according to Director William Dwyer.

With a 6.17 per cent increase over November of 1975, said Dwyer, the most recent month for which figures are available showed 1,464,025 people passed through the turnstiles in 30 November days of 1976.

Printer Accused In Bogus $100s

A South San Francisco printer has been accused by the United States Secret Service of being the brains behind a "moderate sized" counterfeiting ring that specialized in the printing and distribution of bogus $100 bills.

Dick Cameron, in charge of the Secret Service investigation, said the arrest of Gerald I. Hammond, 26, of 2309 Galway Place, South San Francisco, broke up a ring that has been operating in the Bay Area for the past two months.

Cameron said the fake $100 bills the gang was passing in stores throughout the area was of "average quality" and "really not that bad."

As far as counterfeiting rings go, however, the latest group is considered "moderate." Only $100,000 in the fake bills was confiscated in the raids conducted by police between Daly City and San Jose.

In all, eight persons were arrested and charged with participating in the scheme.

Cameron said the printing press allegedly used by Hammond to print the money, had also been confiscated and was now sealed in a San Francisco warehouse.

He described the press as being "a rather large piece of equipment" that required at least three persons to move it.

While Hammond allegedly printed the bogus bills, truck driver William J. Tuckett, 23, of 13 Canterbury St., Daly City, is charged with distributing the phony money, Cameron said.

Police confiscated a reported $90,000 in counterfeit money when they raided Tuckett's home.

Another $10,000 in bogus money was found inside a car owned by Steven A. Volore, 29, of 1310 Arnold Ave., San Jose, it was reported.

Police got their first break in the case when a suspicious San Jose store clerk called police on Dec. 20 reporting that four men were inside his store trying to pass what appeared to be counterfeit $100 bills.

The four men, later identified as Volore, Thea Genis, 19; Janet K. Dyre, 19; and Alfonso N. Zabala, 23, all from the San Jose area, were arrested by police at the store.

Fire Blamed On Wiring

Electrical wiring is being blamed as the cause of a fire that broke out in a Daly City basement on New Year's Eve.

The fire, which broke out in the basement of 47 Longview Drive, did only about $1,000 damage to the structure and its contents, firemen said.

During a search of Volore's car parked outside the store, police reportedly found the large stack of fake $100 bills.

On Dec. 26, Secret Service agents were called into the investigation.

Shortly thereafter, police arrested James P. Kummer, 24, of Milpitas, when he allegedly tried to pass a counterfeit bill at a South Peninsula shopping center.

Wednesday, Tuckett and James L. Porter, of San Jose, were arrested and charged with aiding in the distribution of the bogus money, Cameron said.

Rucker Gets Life Term

Convicted killer William E. Rucker, described by a probation officer as a "failure in every major area of life," has been sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of candy store clerk Bonnie Jean Baumann.

The sentence was imposed by Superior Court Judge Gerald E. Ragan after the judge rejected a motion for a new trial by defense attorney Richard Minkoff.

Rucker, 21, also was sentenced for the robbery conviction. He most likely will be eligible for parole after seven years.

Mrs. Baumann, 55, of South San Francisco, was gunned down by Rucker last July inside See's Candy store, 2370 Broadway, Redwood City.

A jury convicted him earlier this month following a two-week trial climaxed by prosecutor John E. O'Leary's admonition to jurors that "anything other than a first-degree murder conviction would be a miscarriage of justice."

Jurors, who refused to discuss their deliberations, rejected the defense presented by doctors that Rucker was too intoxicated to form the necessary legal intents for first-degree murder.

Probation Officer G. F. O'Donnell noted in his report to Judge Ragan that Rucker twice before was convicted of crimes involving threats with knives to young girls. One was during a robbery. Rucker also has twice been convicted of drunken driving.

"This man is a failure in every major area of life," O'Donnell asserted in his seven-page report. "He has no home other than what others provide him. He has no work skills and has never earned more than minimum wages."

"He has been offered chances to straighten up his life, once in the military and twice in the local community. He has thrown away these chances each time."

"He has shown no remorse for taking a life. His remark to his girlfriend right after the shooting — 'I blew it' — says it all. 'I blew it' is a statement of appropriate severity for missing an appointment or forgetting to put a stamp on the envelope. It is grossly inappropriate to describe killing someone."

O'Leary had been seeking the death penalty against Rucker but the California Supreme Court announced during the trial that the state's capital punishment statute was unconstitutional because it did not provide for a jury to receive or consider mitigating circumstances concerning a defendant.

The staff at both the Veterans Administration and Ellsworth Community Rehabilitation facility remember Rucker as one who would program — that is, keep his behavior within acceptable limits and participate enough to keep from being sent away — but not one who tried to get to the bedrock of his personality and find out what was wrong," O'Donnell told Judge Ragan.

Members of the respective staffs "expect Rucker will be a model prisoner and will eventually be released no different than when he went in," O'Donnell reported.

Coastal Commission 'Fulfilled Commitment'

By DAN COOK

With the coming of the new year, numerous changes will irrevocably alter the face of regional government, among them the establishment of the California Coastal Zone Conservation Commission.

The new commission was created out of the ashes of the interim commission established by the passage of Proposition 20 in 1972.

The new, permanent commission and its regional commissions come about as a result of the signing of the Smith Bill, also known as the California Coastal Act of 1972, by Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr.

San Mateo County Supervisor John Ward, a member of the Central Coast Regional Coastal Zone Conservation Commission the past two years, will be leaving his post as vice chairman of the regional commission in January.

He will do so somewhat reluctantly, but because of his impending appointment as chairman of the County Board of Supervisors, he feels he won't have sufficient time to devote to both posts.

Ward's vacant seat on the new commission will be taken by newly elected Supervisor Fred Lyon, a San Mateo attorney who campaigned on a strong environmental theme and with the active support of most of the county's environmental action groups.

While would-be developers and some Coastside residents rant and fume about what they consider the excesses of the commission, others are looking toward Lyon's appointment as a harbinger of promise for the environmental cause.

Supervisor to leave post on Central Coast Regional Coastal Zone Conservation Commission.

time to reflect on his two years on the commission, where it has been and where it is going in the years ahead. In an interview with The Times, Ward looked back on some of the successes — and some of the failures — of the outgoing commission.

"I will say that membership on the commission is the most time-consuming (of any) commission on which a (county) supervisor must serve," Ward said, reflecting on the two-monthly sessions of at least eight hours each.

In describing the relevancy of the commission's deliberations, Ward said the bulk of the commission's business had little to do with San Mateo County.

"I would guess that 80 per cent, conservatively, of the time spent in meetings was spent on Monterey County and Santa Cruz County permits and planning problems," Ward said, attributing this observation to the fact that the major population density of those two counties, unlike San Mateo County, is on their coasts.

"From a planning standpoint, the inclusion of the area from Devil's Slide south to Santa Cruz (into the Central Coast commission) does make some sense in terms of being basically agricultural and open space with pockets of development," Ward said. "From Pacifica north, there is no particular (commission) orientation in terms of this county."

"What I think is that it really has not been understood that the coastal commission approach to permits and planning for residential and other land uses is done on the basis of resource management rather than what some people oversimplify as a question of growth versus no growth."

"In all of this, you must start with the basic premise that there is something about our coastal resources that deserves special attention," Ward stated. "That is the thrust of Proposition 20."

"What has always been my concern is how to recognize the right of the individual to develop his property. The conflict came when an applicant, because of the act's requirements, went through all of the local approvals, got to the coastal commission and had his project shot down because it was in conflict with Proposition 20, or had it drastically modified."

"That, to me, was the problem with the two-step permit process," Ward said. "It was backwards; he should have gone to the coastal commission first. Under the new law, there is a different set of criteria."

Ward was critical of state legislation allowing agricultural lands to be placed into the state agricultural preserve, thus removing them from the tax rolls.

"The problem with the Williamson Act is that the state has not lived up to its part of the bargain by reimbursing local jurisdictions for the loss in assessed valuation."

Has the coastal commission lived up to the stated goal of Proposition 20 in keeping agricultural lands productive in agriculture? "No, because there has been no funding mechanism," Ward replied. "One of the key points is the acquisition of development

Good morning, good cooks. Will you, good cooks, look through your files and see if you have a recipe for a date pie? A loyal reader writes that she was served a delicious creamy date pie at a restaurant in Fresno and would like to bake one for her family.

Since we are thinking about desserts, I'd like to share this easy to make and delightful to taste cake.

BARBARA'S CHERRY-PINEAPPLE CAKE

- 1 can cherry pie filling
- 1 can (20-ounce) pineapple chunks, drained
- 1 box yellow cake mix
- 2 cubes butter, melted
- 1 cup chopped nuts

Pour cherry pie filling, drained pineapple in an ungreased 9x13-inch baking pan. Sprinkle the cake mix over top and the half cup nuts. Drizzle the two cubes melted butter over cake and nuts and bake in 350-degree oven about 45 minutes or until a rich golden brown.

Cook on rack and refrigerate. Serve topped with whipped cream. This is a rich dessert that will serve a good crowd.

I've been testing and tasting these dessert recipes (and my lovely figure shows the results) and set them aside to share with you good cooks after the rush and richness of holiday baking was past.

January seems a good time to try new recipes, so here's another goodie.

CHOCOLATE CHERRY CAKE

- 1 package Fudge Cake or Chocolate Cake Mix
- 1 can Cherry Pie Filling
- 3 eggs
- 1/2 teaspoon almond extract

Preheat oven to 350 degrees, grease and flour a 12-cup Bundt cake pan or a tube pan.

In large bowl blend the packaged cake mix, cherry pie filling, three eggs and half teaspoon almond extract. Beat two (62) minutes at highest speed. Pour into prepared pan.

Bake 45 to 50 minutes or until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool upright in pan for 45 minutes. Turn onto serving plate and cool completely.

GLAZE

- 1/2 cup chocolate chip pieces
- 1 tablespoon margarine
- 2 tablespoons milk
- 1/2 cup powdered sugar, sifted

In small saucepan, over low heat, blend the half cup chocolate chips, one tablespoon margarine and two tablespoons milk until chocolate melts, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and stir in the half cup sifted powdered sugar till smooth. Add more milk, if needed, for right consistency to spoon over cake.

Vegetarians Plan Lecture

The next lecture sponsored by the San Francisco Vegetarian Society open to the public will be "Vegetarianism and Food Combining."

John Callela, health educator, will discuss the role of food on behavior and the way to combine non-meat foods to get the most nutritional value.

It will be on Jan. 9 at 3 p.m. at Homestead Community Room, Geary Boulevard and 22nd Avenue, San Francisco.

Orchid Show Is Slated

The San Francisco Orchid Society will hold its annual spring orchid show in the Hall of Flowers, Golden Gate Park, 9th Avenue and Lincoln Way, Feb. 19 from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. and Feb. 20, from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m.

This year's theme will be "Orchids for all Seasons." On display will be hundreds of examples of plants which are grown throughout the year in the San Francisco Bay area and throughout Northern California, indoors and outdoors.

It will be an opportunity for the public to view hybrid orchids as well as rare botanicals and species from all over the world.

In addition, top experts of the society will deliver informative lectures on the culture of orchids and demonstrations of correct potting of orchid plants, and corsage-making.

Commercial growers will also have displays of orchids. Orchid plants as well as other house plants will be offered for sale at moderate prices.

There will be a donation of $1 at the door for adults; children and senior citizens, 50 cents each.

Plans Readied For Cookie Sale

In anticipation of the 1977 Girl Scout Cookie Sale scheduled for Jan. 14-30, Margaret Kachur, Daly City Area Girl Scout Association cookie chairman, reminds all troop cookie chairmen to pick up their supplies from Mrs. Kachur, 58 Clifton, Daly City.

Cookie booths at local stores will be coordinated by Mrs. Kathy Skirra (756-2560). Leaders and adults are asked to contact stores directly but request booths from Mrs. Skirra.

"Girls should not start selling received cookies until Friday, Jan. 14," Mrs. Kachur emphasized. "It is only fair to wait until every girl has cookies so that all start on an even basis," she continued.

Brownie, Junior, Cadette and Senior Scouts who sell thirty (30) or more boxes will receive a cookie award.

Troops selling either the most cases of cookies in their area or the most cases per girl will each receive two free night's camping at council-owned camps or $25 per troop for their use in camping or service projects.

Cookies sell for $1.25 per box or $15 per case.

Five kinds of cookies will be available. Mint cookies are crunchy wafers with a minty coating. Lemon Cremes are shortbread filled with lemon creme centers. Chocolate and Vanilla Cremes are sandwich cookies filled with creme centers.

Scot-Teas are the shortbread cookie lightly topped with sugar and are in the shape of a Girl Scout Trefoil. The traditional Girl Scout cookie can be used in many dessert recipes.

The poppa Savannah is a crunchy sandwich cookie with a peanut butter creme center named after the birthplace of Girl Scouting in the U.S.A. Savannah. Ga.

And whatever you do, try ENRICO ROMANO'S pizzas (small, medium, large) to eat in or take out. PHIL LEHR has created a delicious new after-dinner drink at the STEAKERY, on the lower level of the San Francisco Hilton Hotel Tower, that clicked instantly with his discerning clientele. Phil calls it the "Yellow Rolls Royce," a flavorful blend of yellow chartreuse, triple sec and sweetened lemon juice. As in years past, SCOTTY CAMPBELL'S restaurant in Redwood City resolves to maintain the high standards of their service and food, and to make every day like Christmas. The dining room is merry with conversation, and the voices are often those of famous entertainers at Circle Star Theater who make Scotty Campbell's their post-performance headquarters. THE CASTAWAY, at Coyote Point, is a tropical paradise in which to enjoy delightful food and exotic drinks. Sunday Brunch is featured from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

SSF Police Nab 2 In Jewelry Theft

Two Daly City men who were captured with a bag full of reportedly stolen jewelry were arrested by South San Francisco police Friday after a short chase. Police said Mr. and Mrs. Carl Frizzell were returning to their Baden Avenue apartment at 3:15 p.m. from shopping when they saw two men coming out their front door.

Frizzell ran after them and his wife telephoned police, according to reports.

A short time later, Officer Armando Reayvasquez saw a man running across Miller Avenue at Elm Avenue who matched the description the woman gave police.

Reayvasquez chased the man over a fence into a backyard and reportedly brought him out at gunpoint. Police later identified the man as Melvin Lynn Allen, 25, of 141 Park Plaza, Daly City.

Meanwhile, Officer Art Toscano noticed another man walking on Tamarack Lane carrying a paper sack. When Toscano questioned the man, the man said he had seen somebody run off in the opposite direction, police reported.

However, officer Toscano noticed that the man was perspiring slightly. After a short chase, Toscano subdued him.

Police said the bag the suspect was carrying contained watches and jewelry taken from the Baden Avenue address. The other suspect, Robert Warren Rodewald, 32, who listed a Daly City motel as his residence, and Allen were both taken to County Jail and charged with burglary.

Police said it was learned that Allen had earlier jumped bail on a San Francisco burglary charge.

NEW RECRUIT

He was introduced to the typical daily routine that he will experience during his enlistment and studied the personal and professional standards traditionally exhibited by Marines.

Trained

Marine Private Marcos A. Jimenez, son of Mr. Mateo A. Jimenez and stepson of Mrs. Mila Jimenez of 356 Westlake Ave., Daly City, has completed recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego.

During the 11-week training cycle, he learned the basics of battlefield survival. He was introduced to the typical daily routine that he will experience during his enlistment and studied the personal and professional standards traditionally exhibited by Marines.

He participated in an active physical conditioning program and gained proficiency in a variety of military skills, including first aid, rifle marksmanship and close order drill.

Another Perfect Game for Giniere

John Giniere has brought to three the number of perfect game bowlers this season at San Carlos Bowl.

Giniere, who carries a 193 average for Empire Lumber and Supply's team in the 935 Classic, put 17 years of experience on the lanes behind his 12-strike beauty.

His fourth 300 came midway in a 699 series for the San Mateo Times employee, a member of the Hoffman Plumbing team which captured two scratch titles at the recent California State Tournament.

Giniere's feat, coming after a 214 warmup and a 185 afterthought, followed previous perfectors by Greg Wooley of team 13 and Jerry Allen of Bradbury Pro Shop, both in the 935 Classic during November. Giniere earlier had a lifetime best of 845 for three games.

Services Set At B'nai Israel

Sabbath services will be observed in the sanctuary of Congregation B'nai Israel, 1575 Annie Street, Daly City, on Friday evening, Jan. 7, at 8:30 p.m. The service will be conducted by Rabbi Ira Book.

One of the highlights of the evening will be the performance by the choir, led by Richard Altman, choir director and organist. At the conclusion of services, an Oneg Shabbat (social hour) will follow hosted by two members of the Temple Sisterhood.

For readers, what's new in 1977?

There is Beauty's Daughter (Coward, January 1977) wherein Mollie Hardwick reconstructs the life of an illegitimate daughter of Emma, Lady Hamilton, whom Lord Nelson loved. The story is full of high romance, drama and tragedy with lovely Emily see-sawing between rags and riches.

This Other Eden (Marilyn Harris, Putnam, January 1977) is another historical novel in which Lady Hamilton appears. It tells of a beautiful sixteen-year-old servant girl who is publicly lashed for spurning the advances of the lecherous Lord Thomas Eden. Through its story of the lusty pursuit of a virgin by her master moves not only Lady Hamilton, but Lord Nelson, Tom Paine and a lot of talk about the American and European Revolution. This Other Eden is being pushed towards the best seller lists.

FOR A CHANGE OF pace there is Four Sergeants by Zeno. (Atheneum, January 1977) It presents to the reader the horror of men in conflict during the battle of Sicily during World War II. The four sergeants are pictured of what men become in wartime. One of them has become an automatized killer, one hates all military brass, the others are citizen soldiers who are forced to fight for issues beyond their philosophical level.

A Scanner Darkly (Doubleday) is a new science fiction novel by Philip K. Dick. Set in California in 1994 it shows the citizens divided into two hostile camps — the straights and the dope freaks. The story involves Bob Arctor as he tries to exploit both sides. The story is full of drugs and crime and of people losing their identity in a horrible world.

Among the new books of non-fiction is Wesley Marx's plea for urban planning. In Acts of God Acts of Men, (Coward, 1977) Marx contends that man creates the calamities he meets by building on flood plains, shifting sands, in soft soils and in hurricane regions. Urban planning could prevent many horrors known to mankind.

Dare To Be Great by Rudy Maxa, (Morrow, 1977) is an unauthorized biography of Glen W. Turner, the son of a South Carolina sharecropper who made a fortune on the chain-letter principle.

How Jimmy Won by Kandy Strout (Morrow, 1977) is the first but certainly not the last account of President-elect Carter's victory. The book is a behind-the-scenes look at the Carter campaign. Readers will find it filled with anecdotes that reveal something more about the next President of the United States.

FAIR PLAY For Frogs (Harcourt, 1977) has got to be the most different book of the year. Herein Assemblyman Jerome R. Waldie, who favored killing frogs with slingshots, exchanges letters with one Nestle J. Frohish, an angry citizen who founded the Worldwide Fair Play For Frogs. Reviewers have found the book to be both witty and ludicrous.

Murder With Malice (St. Martin's, 1977) illustrates the trend in new mystery books. Here Michael Underwood tells of Detective Nick Atwell who is accused of extortion by a murder suspect. But, true to his calling as a policeman, Nick starts asking questions and uncovering truths. For this, his loyal wife who also asks questions is subjected to injuries and nearly loses her life.

Serra Stereo Victorious, 40-26

Serra Stereo remained unbeaten and in sole possession of first place in the 6 feet and Under Division by beating Tippy's 40-26. The win brought Serra Stereo's record to 5-0 with three games remaining.

Tony Passanisi scored 23 points for Serra Stereo and Jim O'Donnell was high for Tippy's with 15 points.

In other action, Tommy McHenry's 26 points led the Bank Shots to their first victory of the season as they defeated the Celtics 40-35. Gary Bender led the Celtics with 12 points.

The Crows brought their record to 4-1 with a 41-30 victory over BBLB. Rocky Sturdivant and Don Frediani led the Crows with 16 points apiece.

Leary Wong and Fred DeJarlais led BBLB with 13 points each. And finally, The Wonders remained one game off the pace with a 40-28 victory over the Sticks.

Rich Olsen paced the Wonders with 15 points and Glenn Phillips of the Sticks led all scorers with 17 points.

In the Open Division, The Birds, led by Steve Sacs 23 points, defeated the Sportsmen 40-30. The win kept the Birds tied for first and dropped the Sportsman a game off the pace. Dion Banford paced the Sportsmen with 14 points.

The Jaguars remained tied for first with a 40-26 victory over the City Slickers. Phil Courtney, of the Jaguars, led all scorers with 14 points. Tom Miller and Fred DeJarlais each tallied 11 points for the Slickers.

And in the last game, the Dirty Shirts evened their record at 3-3 by defeating the No-Stars 40-35. Ralph Sands, of the Dirty Shirts, led all the scorers (23 points). Dick Maddrell led the No Stars with 15 points.

Somewhat, you knew when it became apparent that Franco Harris and Rocky Bleier really weren't going to play against Oakland, that it wasn't just one of those plays that head coaches use to lull opponents into a false sense of security, that the Raiders would win the right to advance to the Super Bowl.

No matter how good Pittsburgh is, there is no team that can lose two 1,000 yard rushers and not be mightily affected, especially when one of them, Bleier, is also perhaps one of the best blockers on the team.

So, Terry Bradshaw had to go to the air, and he just didn't have enough. Sure, he had had a great day the week before against Baltimore, but so had Harris, and that is what had made Bradshaw more effective against the Colts defense.

But enough game analysis. What can now be said that hasn't already been said many times by all the experts? Some observations, though, not necessarily about the games themselves.

I AM GETTING ANNOYED with play-by-play and color men who probably make a minimum of $50,000-100,000 a year, say, "Well, it's third and long." What does that mean? Can't they add and subtract well enough and fast enough in their heads to be more specific than, "third and long"? Or would that be too much trouble, and interfere with their chatty little anecdotes, the gossip they've culled from having had dinner or gone hunting with the head coach, their in-depth analyses of the various strategies or psychological profiles of the players.

Is it too much for a television viewer, who can't always see the yard markers, to ask the men who are supposed to be his eyes to tell him what yard line the teams are on and how many more yards they have to go for a first down?

Or is that beneath the dignity of the broadcasting stars?

As one who used to be a football statistician, I can attest to the fact that, if one is concentrating, it is no hard task to almost instantaneously compute such esoteric things as EXACTLY how many yards a kickoff or punt was returned (some of these clowns are off by as much as 10 yards at times), what down it is, how many yards to go for a first down, how many times a runner has carried a ball and for how much yardage, etc. Of course, when I was doing this, I wasn't broadcasting at the same time. But it took only seconds to relay this information to broadcasters and newspapermen.

Well, what can you say. We're in an era when insecure people feel they can hold on to their jobs only if they convince everybody that their jobs are very technical, very difficult, and very singular.

As for the Steelers, I can say objectively that I'm happy the Raiders beat them and beat them badly, not necessarily because I wanted the Raiders to win, nor that I wanted to see the Steelers in particular lose or be humiliated — but that I wanted to see one of the complainers lose decisively.

There have been too many games this past pro football season, the results of which were clouded by constant complaining about how officials had lost it for the losers.

Instant re-play proves that officials are still right about 95 percent of the time — which is more than anyone can say about the coaches of losing teams. Or the players, for that matter.

And both the Rams and the Vikings, with their playoff performance against each other (as well as the Rams' pathetic display against Dallas) certainly made the 49ers — who handled them both rather handily — seem more formidable this season, and perhaps ominous next year. If Jim Plunkett and Steve Mike-Mayer can make comebacks or be replaced.

Why, the 49ers, in fact, played no small role in helping Minnesota to the Super Bowl.

When the 49er offensive line was being decimated by injuries in early season, they traded two defensive backs — Nate Allen and Windlan Hall — to the Vikes for guard Steve Lawson. Allen played regularly and proved a key member of the vaunted Minnesota defensive unit, while Hall also saw more than a little action.

Later, when wide receiver Will McGee was cut down on Candlestick turf with a broken leg and the 49ers were in desperate need for a swift wide receiver, they traded fullback Sammy Johnson to the Vikes for Jim Lash. Johnson, who I always thought was underrated, proved to be an important special teams man and back-up fullback for Minnesota.

IF EVER THERE WAS an All American and a football Hall of Fame candidate, it was Paul Robeson. Well, Robeson made All American twice as a Rutgers end, 1917-1918. At 6'2 1/2", 210 pounds with outstanding quickness, speed and agility, it's said there wasn't a thing he couldn't do on a football field.

There were a lot of things he could do off a football field, too. He was one of 10 Rutgers undergraduates to win letters in four sports. Aside from football, he was a baseball catcher, a basketball center, and a discus thrower. He captained the Rutgers debating team, was the school's extemporaneous speaking champion four times, and was a Phi Beta Kappa.

He played three seasons of pro football, graduated from Columbia Law School, and then became an internationally acclaimed actor and singer. "Old Man River" was written for him.

But somewhere along the line Robeson, probably because he was black, committed himself to the support of Communism, which was not an uncommon occurrence in his generation, among whites or blacks.

He was denied a United States passport, went to live in the Soviet Union, and returned to America in 1963, an old man.

Now, he is being denied membership to the Hall of Fame, not because he doesn't qualify as an athlete — which should be the sole criteria — but because a committee doesn't think he belongs "for moral reasons."

If all Halls of Fame operated under that philosophy, particularly the baseball Hall of Fame, their showcases would be half empty.

A LOT OF PEOPLE are saying the Warriors are not the team they were last year. That may be true, but they don't have to be the team they were last year to win it all.

Local basketball on the high school and junior college levels may be more interesting this year than in many years past.

It's not because all the teams are overwhelming. They're not. Other teams from the 70s may have had more talent.

But there seems to have been a great leveling off throughout the greater peninsula — if there are fewer peaks, there are also fewer valleys.

Consider this: five local prep teams made the early season top 11 in the Central Coast Section rankings. And there are few untouchables in that top 11.

And consider this: with Skyline and Menlo completely dominant in the Coast Conference, at least one junior college title is coming to the County this season — and College of San Mateo and Canada each boast some top-flight players (some of whom, say experts, are capable of playing Pac-8 ball right now).

The top-ranked local prep teams in the CCS have been Serra (No. 6), Aragon (No. 7), Capuchino (No. 9), San Carlos (No. 10) and Menlo-Atherton (No. 11). Serramonte was accorded honorable mention status. Westmoor deserved ranking right along with Serramonte.

Serra and the WCAL
Serra wound up the non-league season 9-2, getting good rebounding, good scoring (especially from guard Pete Doherty) and tenacious defense. The defense, in particular was a hallmark.

"And not every WCAL team will play that kind of defense," said Hillsdale Coach Bill Wilkin, whose Knights were among Serra's early victims. "Mort Drucker (coach of No. 8-ranked St. Ignatius) said that even in the WCAL not every team will play defense with Serra's intensity."

It appears that Serra, which is always written off as each batch of stars graduates, again has a good chance of being in the WCAL playoffs at the end of the season. Mitty looks like the team to beat at the moment, and Riordan got off to as good a start as Serra.

Mid-Peninsula League
Aragon and Capuchino have already been conceded playoff spots by every coach. After that . . . well, Crestmoor, Hillsdale and Burlingame all hope — even expect — to be in the playoffs. Only two will make it.

Cap and Aragon figure to be far and away the best, however.

Aragon, which finished with the best non-league record among local teams (7-1), revolves around 6-6 center Sid Williams, who leads the CCS in scoring on a per-game average. Aragon's whole game is inside, on offense, at least. Williams will get some help from football standout Marty Leahy (a 6-3 senior forward), but Williams will always be the main attraction.

"It's not just that he's big," said one opposing coach. "Look at the way he shoots — the shot comes so high above his head that he's actually shooting as though he were 6-9, not 6-6. He's going to be very tough inside." Strangely enough, Aragon may be challenged inside on defense.

Aragon is also one of the most experience quintets around. At any given time the Dons will probably be fielding four returning players from last year's team.

Capuchino (currently 9-4 in non-league play) may be the best of the bunch. The Mustangs are certainly the biggest team around. Junior center Dave Lopp, at 6-6, is already a force to be reckoned with. One forward, Mitch Fontaine, is 6-5, and sixth man Wade Buckingham is 6-5.

Cap's sparkplug is junior guard Mike Mitchell, who is one of the top five scorers in the CCS already.

Two of Cap's starters are juniors, but they're superior as juniors go, and will be huge plusses.

Cap's game is offense — it always has been under Jimmy Johnson, and as long as Jimmy's around it always will be. The Mustangs fast break fairly well, and their inside-outside balance on a set-up offense is the best in the league.

"If you want to learn about offense, that's the best school in the district to play for," said one coach.

Burlingame is off to a winning 6-5 start, sparked by guard Rick Lundgren and 6-5 center Dave Kohn. After a couple of very lean years, the Panthers have high hopes. They'll face an early test when the MPL season gets under way Wednesday — they host Cap.

HURLEY HITS BOARDS

Serra's Bob Hurley, a front-line standout during Serra's fine non-league season, hauls down a rebound.

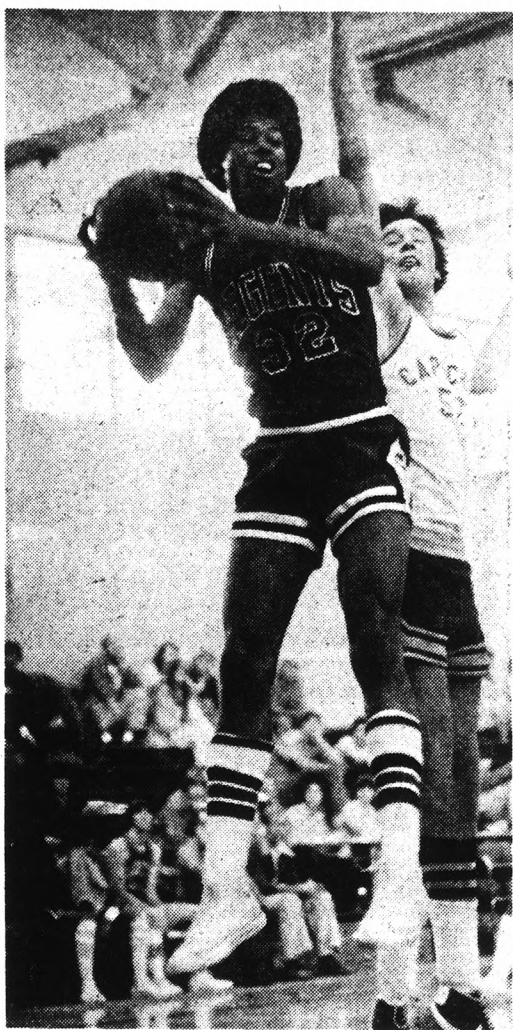

Auto Show

Signups have been completed for the 1977 San Mateo World of Wheels Custom Vehicle Show, with show producers Bill Moeller and H. Bagdasarian turning away nearly 50 vehicles.

The show, which will be held in the Hall of Flowers building at the San Mateo Fairgrounds, gets underway Jan. 14.

County Basketball Preview

Close League Battles for Quints

DOMINANT CENTERS

Serramonte's Reggie Love (32) takes a rebound away from Capuchino's Dave Lopp (52). Love (6-5) and Lopp (6-6) are expected to provide a lot of muscle underneath for their title-contending teams.

Crestmoor wound up 6-4 in non-league play, and the Falcons had their ups and downs. Most coaches feel that the Falcons, led by Jim Stewart, will make the playoffs.

Hillsdale started with what looked like (on paper, anyway) very little, but the Knights have played some impressive games in a 5-7 non-league season.

One key to the Knights' hopes may be 6-3 center Terry Batchelder, who damaged a knee during the football season and has been out of action since. Last year Batchelder may have been physically the toughest player in the MPL.

"If he can come back, I think we can give anybody a good game," said Wilkin. "But if he can come back . . . and when . . . and how strong he'll be . . . we just don't know."

Batchelder has been practicing with the Knights, but is still far from his old form.

San Mateo and Mills are given little chance for the playoffs, but each team is likely to pick up a couple of wins along the way.

North Peninsula League
Overall, this may be the weakest league, but the teams at the top can play with anybody.

The slight favorite appears to be Serramonte, a fast-breaking team with as much usable depth as any team in the County. Center Reggie Love, at 6-5, is quick and tough, and the Regents may have the best overall team speed around. They'll use that speed to run and shoot when they can, and they won't be afraid to shoot.

Defending champion Westmoor has lost Chris Tyeskey to an injury. Before the season it was thought Tyeskey would be the Rams' main man, but one observer felt the Rams could win without him. One reason is guard Jack Dorn, the All-County football quarterback who has come on to give Westmoor a lot of spark.

With Dorn in good form, and a fairly big, physical front line, Westmoor deserves co-favorite status in the NPL.

South San Francisco wound up with almost as good a non-league season as Serramonte and Westmoor. The Warriors are expected to be the third team in the playoffs — but not to play at Westmoor's or Serramonte's level.

Beyond that, the league drops off somewhat. The other playoff spot is wide open. It could be Half Moon Bay (3-5) or El Camino (2-5), although neither team has been overly impressive to date.

South Peninsula Athletic League

"Before the season really got under way, we figured that Menlo-Atherton and Carlmont would be head and shoulders above the rest," said San Carlos Coach Dan Silva. "But now it looks like they've hit some valleys."

Indeed, M-A is 10-2, and has played very well on occasion, but has also run into trouble when shooting percentage from the floor has fallen off. The Bears, led by guard Darrell Barbour, with his circus passes, and forward Derry Clark, the recipient of many of those passes, is still regarded as the favorite.

But San Carlos (8-4), behind the scoring of forward Tod Sedlacek, has come on strong — strong enough to have beaten M-A once already.

"That doesn't mean much," says Silva, who says he prefers underdog status. "They were emotionally flat after a big game. I have been very pleased with our play, though."

San Carlos has seldom, if ever, been a favorite, and Silva would like to keep it that way. He figures the Dons will just scrap that much harder — as they have in the past.

Carlmont (4-7) has run into some problems. Terry Stogner's squad is loaded with pretty fair shooters, but they haven't been shooting too well.

"I think we have just run into a small confidence problem," said Stogner. "It seems like we either win by 10 or 14 points or lose by three or four. I don't know what it is."

Observers are betting that Carlmont will find its shooting eye often enough to be in the thick of the race. Carlmont will have to fight a lack of team speed. And it will have to rely on 6-5 center Waymon McKitric, who has shown a tendency to foul a lot lately. McKitric is solidly built, and can commit an offensive foul without trying. But he can also be tough inside, and together with forward Jim Clark (one of the top players in the SPAL at the moment) provides some good muscle inside.

The other playoff team in the SPAL will probably be Sequoia (5-5), which has been inconsistent throughout the non-league season. However — when the Cherokees happen to be on their game, watch out.

Junior Colleges

Skyline seems to have avoided College of San Mateo this season, but maybe that was unnecessary.

Skyline has been looking good, as usual. The Trojans are 13-4, and two of those losses came to Santa Rosa, the top-ranked team in the state. It's hard to tell who will go on a scoring spree for the Trojans on any given night. Early in the season, it was usually Dave Davis, an accomplished guard from Southern California. Lately it's been Ted Scott, a Westmoor grad who went on a rampage this last week at the Chabot Invitational tournament.

Mark Felix is a solid returnee at forward. Freshman Jason Malinowski, a fair shooter and fine passer from Capuchino, has been getting more playing time as the season progressed.

Skyline's big opposition for a Coast Conference crown is traditional power Menlo, led by steady Hillsdale grad Mike Stockwell at guard and Butch Treadwell on the front line. Menlo, 8-2, suffered when center Steve Trobabe (brother of former Stanford standout Scott) was injured. But the Oaks figure to be battling for No. 1 from the beginning.

Canada looked so-so, hustling to a 7-6 record. But 6-4 forward Phil Polee, a top-rated prep player from Southern California, recently became eligible to play on his 18th birthday, and could help transform the Colts.

"He's the best player this school ever had," said Coach Bub Bowling. "And he could play — could start right now for a four-year school. I know he could play at USC!" Bowling is a former USC assistant.

College of San Mateo has a lot of power, although not too much speed in the backcourt. Center Mike Wilson is a 6-7 gold mine; he has been heavily recruited by many schools. Ron Jackson (6-4), Ricky Grier (6-5) and Maurice Pittman (6-3) are extremely physical on the front line. Grier, a freshman, has shown great improvement since the beginning of the season.

If CSM doesn't have backcourt trouble, it could be one of the top teams in the Golden Gate Conference (although the GGC is perhaps the toughest conference around). All of CSM's players must stay eligible, however, for the Bulldogs to be a factor in the GGC race. In the past, stars have dropped out at the end of the fall-winter semester, and were thus lost for the bulk of the league race.

Area Fire Chiefs Irked

Emergency Calls to County Number

By RICK SULLIVAN
San Mateo County fire chiefs are angry. The object of their ire is a county request that calls for emergency care service be directed to a central control point for dispatching paramedic units.

So disturbed are some of the chiefs that they are conducting intense campaigns to urge residents of their communities to ignore the county request, and — for at least the next two months — to call their local fire departments for emergency care.

Chiefs Robert Kohler of Millbrae and Richard Bosted of San Carlos are distributing flyers throughout their cities and placing notices in local newspapers advising residents that the fastest response for emergency service is through the fire departments.

San Bruno Fire Chief Harper Peterson also is urging that reports of emergencies be made through his department.

The chiefs emphasize that they are not criticizing the performance of the new county-retained emergency services company, Medevac.

They are opposed, however, to a policy adopted by the Board of Supervisors that asks that initial reports of emergencies be made to County Central Control.

According to James Powers of the County Emergency Medical Services Department, the policy requires that county control dispatchers take emergency reports, direct to the nearest available Medevac unit to the scene of an accident and then notify the police department in the city where the emergency exists. It is up to the police department then to alert the fire department.

Under the present emergency care system in this county, a Medevac unit is stationed in most cities and response to provide paramedic care and transport service for patients. Fire department personnel also respond to give treatment.

What the chiefs in the smaller cities are concerned about is that in many cases their departments can respond to an emergency sometimes in half the time that a Medevac unit can; yet they are the last agency to be notified of an emergency.

"The whole (board) policy is what I call reverse protocol," said Chief Bosted. "It doesn't make a lot of sense to me to inform last the agency which can respond the fastest to an emergency," he added.

Chief Bosted said he has discussed his concerns with county officials, but, he said, "No one is interested in any movement. It's a county-wide snafu."

Chief Kohler agrees. "The county is moving much too fast with its emergency service system," he said. "They don't have the communications system available at this time to route calls through county control and get the one agency which can respond the fastest to the scene of an emergency."

Chief Bosted said the average emergency response time for a San Carlos rescue unit is 3.2 minutes. Chief Kohler said Millbrae's average response time is 2.7 minutes.

According to Robin Moore, a representative of Medevac, the average response time of the new units is 5.5 minutes.

Chief Peterson said he considers that response time "very good," considering the length of time the system has been in operation. It began Dec. 1. However, he and the other two chiefs are convinced that units which can respond the quickest should be the first notified.

"Because Medevac is taking on the average about 5.5 minutes to respond and some of the smaller cities can respond in half the time, I'd rather have them (Medevac) delayed than us (the fire departments)," Peterson said.

"A delay of even a few seconds can mean the difference between life and death," Kohler added.

David Theone of the Emergency Medical Service Office admits that between 15 and 20 seconds pass before County Control can contact the police departments.

He also acknowledges that sometimes the police departments experience delays in contacting their fire departments. He, nevertheless, defends the policy of calling County Control for paramedic service.

Theone states the following reasons:

- It is far easier for residents to remember a single emergency number than different numbers for all the county fire departments.

- The county knows at all times the availability of every ambulance in the county and can alert a unit immediately. Fire departments don't have direct communication with ambulances.

- Not all cities have fire departments which answer emergency calls all day.

- The county will notify the police agency in the city of an emergency.

Theone further explains that the county wants to get residents used to calling a central number because by the end of February, a new communications system is due to be installed that will alert all emergency agencies of a paramedic call simultaneously.

"With this new communication system, there will be no lag time in notifying police and fire departments of an emergency," Theone said. "All the units can roll at once."

Theone said he believes some of the fire chiefs are doing the public a disservice by confusing them as to which agency to call.

The chiefs respond that they only want to ensure that residents of their communities get the fastest service available to them.

"There's no doubt that people are getting confused," said Theone, "but the one thing that should be emphasized is that all residents should have some emergency number next to their phones so that they can be sure of getting help when they need it."

School Ruling's Impact on County

By JOHN HORGAN
It is not going to be a particularly happy new year for most officials of San Mateo County's huge public school establishment.

Thursday's court ruling which mandates significant changes in the way school districts finance education can only mean more problems for most districts in this county.

That is because most districts here are high-wealth districts. They spend more money per student than the state average. Thursday's ruling is intended to aid low-wealth districts. What greatly worries spokesmen for local schools is that high-wealth systems may be ordered by the end of this decade to help defray costs for their less fortunate brethren.

Dr. Austin Sellery, superintendent of the San Mateo Union High School District, said today that he feels personally frustrated by what has occurred because "I felt we were getting close to solving the situation."

Public schools in California have been living for almost four years with the tenets of SB90, the landmark state law which limits the amount of money a district can spend per child.

Sellery said he believes that SB90, along with all subsequent legislation modifying the bill, did much to equalize education financing throughout the state.

SB90 was a legislative response to the Serrano-Priest decision which was upheld by Thursday's court action.

"I don't think Serrano can be solved by bringing up low-wealth districts. To talk in terms of dollars only is too simplistic. There is more to education than that," Sellery said.

Sellery also said the 1980 deadline for implementing a new system will not give California enough time to deal with the question reasonably.

"It's much too short a time," he said.

Additionally, he wondered how the government is going to square its pledge of no new taxes with the notion of equalizing school finance.

"How do you do both at once," he asked.

Dr. David Thomas, superintendent of the San Mateo City School District, agreed. He added that the legislature will now have to hurry to come up with some answers to the court's ruling.

Said Thomas, "We need the legislature to get busy on this."

San Mateo's situation is more precarious than some others because of a drop in enrollment which has become severe.

In the next two years, Thomas expects his district to lose nearly 1,000 students.

That factor, when combined with expected new limits on funding, could lead San Mateo into a dangerous fiscal condition rather quickly.

This year, San Mateo has failed to reach agreement with its teachers on salaries because of a lack of money with which to negotiate.

"We can't offer our employees a reasonable raise now," Thomas said.

What will happen when the legislature emerges with a new funding plan casts a pall over future money management, he added.

"The legislature has to find some options," he continued. "I just hope they don't take four years to do it."

According to Thomas, this county has been severely squeezed already.

Not everyone in the county is unhappy with the court's decision.

Officials of the Laguna Salada Union School District in Pacifica are pleased. There is a reason for that. Laguna Salada has the lowest ratio of assessed valuation to students in this county. In fact, it is one of the lowest in Northern California.

Last year, Laguna Salada had only $16,467 behind every child in the district. That compares to districts like Menlo Park with $94,173 and Burlingame with $86,565.

And that is at the core of Thursday's ruling: the court said it feels such a situation is inequitable and unconstitutional.

"We've been working on this for eight years," enthused Wilbur Frye, president of Laguna Salada's board of trustees.

"All we're hoping for is that funds per child in our district can meet the state average."

Frye said his district's spending per student is about $300 below the state average.

Crackdown On Cabs At Airport

A clampdown against cab drivers who turn down passengers wanting rides to nearby locations from San Francisco International Airport began Thursday after a number of complaints were received from arriving passengers.

Drivers from various independent cab companies and independent drivers have been picking up airport passengers since the bankruptcy proceedings against the Yellow Cab Co. halted service to the airport.

Sheriff's Deputy Larry J. Hefner cited three drivers to court Tuesday for "failure to convey" after they allegedly refused short haul trips to Millbrae and Burlingame while they waited for larger fares to San Francisco.

Hefner said that William Dwyer, airport director, has ruled that cabs are required to handle all fares, regardless of destination.

Cited to appear in Northern District Municipal Court on Jan. 17 were David Bedford Brown, 27, a driver for the Sunshine Cab Co., and Sean Patrick O'Falahee, 32, and Eugenio Lagman Sunga, both drivers for Eagle Cab Co., Hefner reported.

Classes Resume

Congregation B'nai Israel, 1575 Annie St., Daly City, announces that their Shabbat Hebrew School classes will resume on Saturday morning, Jan. 8 at 9:30 a.m. after a two-weeks winter vacation.

At 11 a.m. the pupils adjourn to the Temple Sanctuary where Religious School students participate (in some manner) in the service held each Shabbat morning. Each step of the Shabbat service is explained by Rabbi Book to those present.

At the conclusion of Saturday morning services, a Kiddush will be served prepared and served by members of the Bat and Bar Mitzvah classes.

rights. In order to keep the land agricultural, it must be taxed on the basis of its production."

Ward was critical of complex regulations under which meetings of the coastal commission are conducted.

"The other problem with Proposition 20 was that it did not allow for conceptual approval — there is no provision for it — so a lot of 'front money' was spent (on working plans or final plans by would-be developers)," Ward explained.

"Many times the commission would ask for the overall plan, which they couldn't approve; it would get shot down."

"They (the commission) worked to the business of approving plans instead of approving permits," Ward said, somewhat critically.

Ward predicted, contrary to beliefs expressed in an article about the drought, that a combined domestic and agricultural water supply for the community of Pescadero and surrounding agricultural lands would meet favorable commission approval.

"The (commission) staff is looking favorably toward a combined supply, since it is in the spirit of Proposition 20," Ward said. "I want to preserve the rural atmosphere of the Coastside, and that includes agriculture."

"That's why I support the development of an agricultural water supply," he added. "This could achieve the purpose for which acquisition was stated — to preserve open space values by providing the means by which lands stay in agricultural production."

"The (earlier) Pescadero (Creek) dam would have killed agriculture, some people feel, and would have opened up the South Coastside to development," he declared.

"I don't want to see these (agricultural) lands (publicly) acquired," Ward said. "I fought against the Purissima (Park) acquisition because it was not suitable recreational land."

Ward lauded the commission's actions in preserving public access to beachfront development, much like the Bay Conservation and Development Commission, which has worked toward public access to bayfront development.

He was critical of the role of County Assessor Jack Estes in assessing agricultural lands in San Mateo County and assessment practices in general when dealing with lands falling within the jurisdiction of the coastal commission.

"The law requires the assessor to take into account any enforceable restrictions on the land — such as coastal commission restrictions — and appraisals must reflect that," Ward charged. "I believe the (tax) assessor in this county needs some directions."

Finally, Ward was asked to comment on the overall performance of the Central Coast Commission during its four-year life. Has it, by and large, lived up to the expectations given it under Proposition 20?

"Yes, the commission has fulfilled its commitment under Proposition 20 — I have no question of that," Ward said. "It has effectively processed permits at the expense of various agencies on a regional level."

"Other (regional) commissions have backlogs of several hundred permits to be taken up in January, but we cleared our decks pretty well," Ward said. "The staff of the commission did an awful lot of working out problems in planning."

"I think the projects approved are far superior because of the scrutiny given to design and the character of the overall plans of the buildings," Ward concluded.

Two Youths Caught in SSF House

South San Francisco authorities arrested a man and a juvenile Friday afternoon after the two allegedly broke into an unoccupied house in a newly constructed federal housing project.

According to the police, a neighbor called them shortly after 4 p.m. to report seeing someone trying to enter one of the new houses in the 300 block of C Street in South San Francisco.

Good Reading At the Library

There are hundreds, possibly thousands, of very funny books at the San Mateo Library. A tiny selection of these, along with some books about humor, are on display at the second-floor reference desk of the Central Library. Anyone may check out books from the exhibit. Here are a few that are currently on display:

Louis Untermeyer's "Treasury of Great Humor" is a collection of side-splitting poems, gags, and stories from Aesop's time to our own.

"Kops and Custards," by Karlton Lahue and Terry Brewer, is the story of the Keystone Film Co. which dominated movie comedy from 1912 until about 1920.

Yule Tree Burns Home In Millbrae

A Christmas tree outside the front door of a Millbrae home was set afire by children Wednesday and nearly burned the house down.

Millbrae Fire Department officials say the flames did an estimated $3,000 worth of damage to the home occupied by the D.R. Muniz family, 527 Park Blvd., just before 10 a.m.

Firemen said the discarded tree had been placed outside the house and apparently was set afire by a child playing with a cigar lighter.

The tree "went up like a Roman candle," Mrs. Muniz told firemen. The blaze was so intense the family could not get out the front of the house, she said.

The reader learns how Mack Sennett studied humor as one would a science, and how he turned slapstick comedy into a new art form.

Max Beerbohm's "Zuleika Dobson" is the story of a group of Oxford undergraduates who pined for Ms. Dobson, an irresistible beauty. Wit, satire and innuendo sparkle through every page of this classic comic novel.

"A History of the Comic Strip," by Pierre Couperie and others, was written in conjunction with an exhibition of comic strip art at the Louvre in Paris. The text is enlivened by samples of many comic strips from around the world.

People who like off-the-wall humor will be delighted by Raymond Queneau's ribald and high-spirited novel "Zazie." It concerns the adventures of a brash girl of 11 who is sent to visit her weird uncle in Paris.

"How to Speak and Write with Humor," by Percy Whiting, shows how one can develop one's own sense of humor for use in speeches, letters, and conversation.

Max Eastman's "Enjoyment of Laughter" concerns itself with the psychology of humor by attempting to discover why a particular joke, picture or situation makes us laugh. In the course of writing this book the author consulted such funny people as Charlie Chaplin, Groucho Marx, W.C. Fields and James Thurber.

On the first floor of the Central Library is another book display, this one on diets to help us lose those pounds we gained over Christmas. And that's no joke.

"One of the reasons I buy a newspaper is for the things it can help me buy. The ads tell me where the best buys are, and when they are . . . real savings on everything from clothes to food to stereos. And, there's only one paper with more ads for the stores I shop than any other, The Times. With prices like they are today, it makes more sense than ever to shop The Times' ads."
